

10 Sketches of André Florentin

1. Role Play

A host has several players enter the room, he starts the game and each person is assigned a role with certain tasks and goals. You can only enter the room if you are near the host.

2. Phone Puzzle

Each cell phone of the participating players becomes a puzzle piece and the task is to complete the puzzle as quickly as possible. A check is made to see if the puzzle is assembled correctly and then each cell phone gets a new picture and it starts all over again.

3. Helping sounds in the search

The goal of the game is to find given places, items or landmarks faster than his competitors. It is forbidden to use the Internet or Google Maps or similar for the search task. The only help that the players get are sounds or spoken text that guide one to the goal.

4. Trade resources by scanning QR-Codes

Each player has a certain number of resources. Among them are, for example, wool, wood, iron or gold. In a store he can spend these resources and buy things. To get resources, he must negotiate with other players in the real world and, when they have agreed, they scan QR codes and an exchange takes place.

5. Ball balancing with friends

Each player is responsible for a board with a maze. When the ball lands on a board, the corresponding player must balance his cell phone (and thus the board) so that the ball, without falling into one of the traps, makes it safely through the maze to get to the next player. The ball must get to the end point under a time limit.

6. Car Racing Game

The player who reaches the finish line first with his car is the winner. Each car is controlled by tilting the corresponding cell phone. This turns the cell phone into a steering wheel!

7. Capture streets with your clan

When playing for the first time, the player selects a clan with a color. Then it is his task to capture as many streets as possible for his clan. On the map, the captured road is marked according to the color of the clan. You can only capture streets if you are on that street and if you can afford to pay a small price with Game-Coins.

8. Challenge players walking through your city

First, the game finds the nearest major city to your position. In this city you can virtually walk around and meet other players. You can chat with these players and challenge them. Then you would try to kill the challenged player for about two minutes in a small first-person shooter game.

9. AR – Fitness Game

With this game you can add a little variety and fun to your training. First of all, you need a surface on which to point the phone. Using AR technology, a spin wheel is projected onto this surface, and by shaking the phone, the spin wheel spins and selects an exercise for you. You then do this and afterwards your fellow players rate how well the exercise was performed by you. The player with the most points wins.

10. Most-likely-to – Game

Similar to the first game, there is a host who can start a game with players in his area. Then each player is asked a series of questions about the group, starting with "Who is most likely to ...". After that, the statistics are published and so is the answer to the question. The questions can be written by users or provided by the system.
